School Supplies are here

A good start means everything in any race. No student can get the proper start in his race for knowledge without the proper equipment. He must have supplies. We carry the right supplies needed in both Hi and Grammar Schools and will get any specials required.

If any "Freshie" doesn't know where to find the headquarters for school supplies any upper-classman will gladly direct her or him to the proper place.

Mr. and Mrs. Watrous are very popular in the community where they have meant much in social circles. Mrs. Watrous has been one of the most active members of the Pandia Circle for some time.

Mrs. Turner Entertained For Sister

The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Turner, which has witnessed so many gala occasions, was the scene of another merry gathering Saturday evening, to honor the natal day of the hostess' sister, Mrs. Nancy Nutting.

The hours passed rapidly with music, dancing and social chat, the guests following their inclination as to one or all and this was the initiation of the host's new player piano which was greatly admired.

During the early evening punch was served and at midnight a delicious buffet lunch, preceding which, Mrs. H. A. Watrous in very happy chosen words, extended the good wishes of all to the guest of honor. She also very gracefully included Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Smith as participants in the honors of the occasion, it being their wedding anniversary, and extended the thanks of the guests to Mrs. Turner who has made her home such a social center. Responses were made to these good wishes and then Mr. Jos. Parker of San Jose was asked in very complimentary terms to say a few words on the "touch system."

The company included friends from San Jose, Santa Clara and Campbell as well as the Sunnyvale neighborhood.

Country Woman's Club Begins Busy Year

The initial gathering of the members of the Country Woman's Club Monday afternoon was a pleasure to all present, many expressing their satisfaction at the renewal of the club meetings.

The president, Mrs. Ellen R. Smith, very happily voiced the general sentiment in her words of greeting, and then proceeded with the business of the day. Among other matters, one of great interest to the whole community was touched upon, that of the long anticipated library building, and the possibility of taking some steps toward securing the necessary funds. A committee was appointed to formulate tentative plans aiming to meet the various needs of a library and the community so that an estimate of its cost could be made.

The social program was opened by a "Backward Look," being extracts and notes from a scrap book of newspaper clippings of the club's history and activities, read by Mrs. Lillie F. Shaw. Mrs. Ralph Hyde, who so generously gives of her musical talent, sang three charming numbers.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Stephen A. Jones, a veritable "Mother in Israel" in club work. She gave a very able and interesting review of Mrs. Candace Wheeler's resume of her own life entitled, "Yesterdays in a Busy Life." It is an exceedingly worth while book and an inspiration to continued activity in the later years of life.

Mrs. H. C. Smith read two selections, one by George Fitch and the other by James Whitcomb Riley.

The next meeting will be at the Library, Sept. 29th, and Miss Gertrude Rowell, who has given time and study to the subject, probably the most vital before the people of this nation, "Americanization," will be present and speak.

The club voted to pay for the programs individually by a charge of ten cents which can be paid at that time.

Sec. Hicks Makes County "Y" Report

The Santa Clara County YMCA looks forward to the coming months with keen enthusiasm, an enthusiasm based on the success of the Boys' Camp; on the quality of volunteer leadership which is the backbone of the work; on the interest of the boys throughout the county, and on their group work the past year; based also on the increasing feeling among the supporters of the work that a very vital field is open to this program, a field which the county YMCA under its present leadership is capable of occupying. Such was the sentiment at a recent meeting of the county committee, the following committeemen being present: President C. F. Hamsher, Vice Chairman J. W. Snow, Secretary G. L. Beaver, Treasurer J. F. Duncan, G. N. Stray, P. W. Parmelee, E. B. Jennings, H. C. Hagen and R. J. Mansfield.

County Secretary Charles Roger Hicks reported an eminently successful Boy's Camp held from June 28 to July 12 near Pescadero, in the glorious redwoods. Twenty-eight boys took advantage of camp privileges; ask any one of the boys if he is going back next year, his answer will tell what he thinks of the camp. The following boys were in the camp: William Robinson, John P. Duncan of Campbell; John Tallmon, Sedley Pillow of Morgan Hill; Loyt Hawthorne Robt. Shirley, Robt. Sawyer, Walter A. Edwards, Russell Shiras, R. Stevenson, and Paul Esterbrook of Los Gatos; Jos. Kehl, Walter Goodman, D. Coleman and Willard Frost of Sunnyvale; R. Smith O. Oldham of Saratoga; R. Closs of Mt. View; Fred Smith of Santa Clara; Jack Wade, C. Wade, R. Wade, Hillis Ashworth, L. Sonniksen, Nick Delaney, M. Reynolds, A. Mundy and R. Wilson of San Jose. The special fitness of the camping place for this type of work was commented on by everyone.

A vote of thanks was rendered to the camp leaders who made the camp such a success. The leaders were Lieut. Jas. M. Graham, Corp. C. G. Matthews and G. Hays; also Mr. Lucas of the city YMCA who was there a few days and was greatly appreciated.

A vote of thanks was also given the men who by taking the boys to and from camp gave all so much help and encouragement. The trip to camp is not an easy one, a fact which adds to the value of the service. They were: J. F. Duncan, W. A. Rice, H. G. Shirley, G. W. Turner, J. D. Crumney, Sec. Lucas, Mr. Close, Dr. Pond and Senator Jones. Mr. Duncan made three trips, one in the nature of a visit.

A vote of welcome was extended, on behalf of the county YMCA, to the Old Boys of Northern California who will meet in Conference at Palo Alto in November.

KING SPUD

There is a time to keep quiet about potatoes, and a time to talk about them.

The time to be silent on the subject is in the early summer when the new potato has ceased to be an interesting infant, a suitable companion for the succulent green pea, and has become a troublesome, half-grown child. At this stage, ten chances to one, he's knotty, wormy, second-growthed, Siamese-twinned. Customer asks, "Are they good?" Storekeeper, hastily closing and tying a diminutive bag of "two-bits worth," changes the subject to the weather or the Peace Treaty.

The time to talk about potatoes is in the early fall, when the inimitable "Salinas" has matured. Ah, there is the potato for you! Just the right size; a classic oval in shape; smooth, because of his soft, sandy growing-bed; clean-skinned, with a complexion more satisfying than that of a modern calumined belle; mealy and sweet to the taste—he's all of these, and truly the King of Spuds. Customer asks, "Are they good?" Storekeeper pauses in tying a sizable bag of "two-bits worth," and pours out a few. Customer says, "Whew, that's the kind—make it half-a-dollar!"

It's scarce ten days since Mike, the commission man said, "We'll have a car of good 'Salinas' soon." Some at Blaine's now. Six pounds for a quarter; three and a half cents a pound by the sack.

will begin with the opening of the various schools. At the close of the work last spring there were 17 groups in the county including 230 boys led by 25 capable men. It is expected that more groups and more boys will naturally be added this year. However, in the coming months the emphasis will be on intensive rather than on extensive work. The vital spirit of the real YMCA must, this year, enter into the heart of every YMCA boy in the county work. This intensive task will center around the influence of the group leaders, and these leaders can answer the challenge, and will.

BOY SCOUTS

SCOUTING AND AMERICANISM

"Speaking of America," says Chief Scout Executive James E. West, "one of the biggest movements afoot today is the Americanization movement. Being an American means something today, when the eyes of the world are turned to America as the hope and leader of mankind."

"Scouting goes hand in hand with Americanization. A scout who lives up to his oath, to do his duty to God and country, to keep his scout law, to be helpful to all people at all times, is making himself into an American of the best kind. It isn't necessary to have been born on American soil to be a good American."

"Some of our finest scouts, most loyal to our flag, most active in Liberty loan and other patriotic work, first saw light under foreign skies. But that doesn't matter. They are Americans just the same, because they stand for what America stands for and believe in America as the land of hope, opportunity and brotherhood."

"Stop and ask yourself if you are being an American—the right sort of American, through and through. You want to serve your country. Every scout loves America. Maybe some of you envied your older brothers and friends who had a chance to fight for her, die for her. You need not envy anyone. You can live for America, and that is the greatest service you can offer her just now. She needs you. Be Americans!"

PLENTY FOR SCOUTS TO DO.

Their New Slogan is "The War is Over, But Our Work is Not."

SCOUTS IN ENGINEER CORPS.

Lieutenant Gassin of the 308th engineers is in charge of a group of scouts at New Brunswick, N. J., taking up one of the most interesting features of scouting.

This corps is designed to lay a foundation for practical engineering work in the future. The outline of instruction follows:

Preliminary—Road sketching and reconnaissance, use of compass, pace scales, methods of recording notes, forms for traversing with compass and note book, estimating distances.

Sketching Board—Contour maps, drainage systems, traveling by map, field work with sketching board.

Panoramic Sketching—Locating objects that are visible, use of vertical and horizontal clock-face system.

Knots and Lashings—Their use in engineering, rigging tackle, placing sheer poles, lifting weights, construction of trestles.

Pontoon Equipment—Use of rafts in bridging, demolitions, removal of stumps and rocks, sanitation.

SCOUTING IN GOOD CONSPIRACY.

There is a natural relationship between successful men and ambitious boys.

The forward-looking program of scouting cannot fail to appeal to patriotic Americans. The foundation principle of rotary is patriotism.

When the ideals and the principles of these two organizations—rotary and scouting—are analyzed, they are seen to contain the same qualities.

When the church and scouting strike hands to work together for boys, the conspiracy is a good one. When the schools and scouting agree upon a program for boys, it is well for boyhood.

And when rotarians and scout leaders work shoulder to shoulder to train boys for good citizenship, the highest court in the land will pronounce the conspiracy a good one.

Airships for Commercial Use

British Experts Agree That It Is to the Craft of Rigid Construction We Must Look for Usefulness in Business

British experts, seeking to forecast the future potentialities of aircraft, seem to agree that it is to the airship of rigid construction, not to the airplane, that one must look for the maximum of commercial usefulness, writes a foreign correspondent of the Ohio State Journal.

The limitations of airplanes designed on present principles are definitely known. Technically it is an accepted fact that an airplane cannot be produced which is capable of transporting a commercially adequate load for a longer nonstop flight than 1,000 miles. For practical purposes 500 to 800 miles are regarded as the workable limits.

But the prospects of airships are much less easy to diagnose. It is recognized that rigid airships can fly for distances of 2,500 miles carrying a commercial load of approximately fifteen tons, and that they are enabled to undertake long flights now believed to be impossible of attainment by airplanes.

Every increase in the size of airships is accompanied by greater relative efficiency, but the medium-sized airships have greater advantages, it is said, than is generally supposed. For example the "North Sea" class of 500-horse power is capable of transporting a load of more than three tons, whereas the four-engined giant airplane of 1,100-horse power is able to lift less than four tons and burns twice as much gasoline.

Deadly Mosquito

Female Does All Deadly Work of Fever Propagation

The male mosquito does not bite; his bill is so blunt that he could not be a bloodsucker if he wished. It is the female mosquito that does all the deadly work of fever propagation, according to a writer in the Scientific American.

In the autumn the males die, and the females seek winter quarters. They hibernate in dark corners of cellar and garret, and on the first warm day of spring are out laying their eggs. Save when extended by the arrival of this hibernating period, the life of the female is one or two months; the male, on the other hand, lives but a few days. The food of the mosquito is the juice and nectar of plants and, of course, blood—though not necessarily that of man; animals, reptiles and even caterpillars are bitten with the same freedom.

The female mosquito lays from 50 to 100 eggs at a time, on any quiet bit of water. In about three days they hatch, and though at first the larva is very small, it grows rapidly and attains full development in a few days. We have then the familiar wrigglers of the old-time rain barrel and the uncovered cistern.

During the larval stage, which lasts from seven to fourteen days, the malarial variety can be distinguished from all others by the curiously inclined, by virtue of the fact that it lies with its body parallel to the surface of the water while the other species hang with their heads downward.

Pigmies Are Suspected to Be More Ancient Than Any Other Race on Globe

A most interesting puzzle to anthropologists are the pigmies. Apparently of a single racial stock, they are scattered over many parts of the world, and nobody gives a plausible guess as to how their distribution was accomplished.

Wherever found they seem to be the earliest people—veritable aborigines—and all of them are much alike physically, though different somewhat in complexion. They are suspected to be more ancient than any other race now surviving on the globe.

To this race belong the so-called "monkey men" of the mountainous interior of India. Likewise the pot-bellied natives of the Andaman islands, in the Bengal gulf, who are said to "look like babies all their life." These latter wear their hair in frizzly tufts and adorn themselves with necklaces made from the bones and teeth of defunct relatives.

In Madagascar are the Behosy, black dwarfs, who when pursued jump from tree to tree like monkeys. They are so timid that sometimes they die of fright when captured.

Grease Spots on Wallpaper.

To remove grease spots from wallpaper, put powdered French chalk, wetted with cold water, over the places and let it remain for 12 hours. When you brush off the chalk, if the grease spots have not disappeared, put on more chalk, place a piece of coarse brown paper or blotting paper on this and press for a few minutes with a warm iron.

Lavan Proves Big Help to Cards as Shortstop—An Aggressive Player

Johnny Lavan has been a big help to the Cards since joining the team. The shuffle of the infield which shifted Hornsby to third, Stock to second and Miller to first, with Lavan at shortstop, improved the St. Louis club considerably, and if the pitching had held up, the Cards doubtless would be higher up than they are today. Lavan is an aggressive player, a fine infielder, and his batting is hard and timely. He and Johnny Lavan.

Branch Rickey, manager of the Cards, have long been intimate and when Lavan grew weary of pastime with the Senators, Rickey arranged for him to join the Cards. He was to have figured in a three-cornered deal, also involving Davey Robertson and Mike Gonzales, but the transaction was blocked by Barney Dreyfuss.

Magnetic Eyes Needed to Make a Good Impression

A winking, blinking, and wandering eye will never influence people; therefore it is of great importance that these organs should be trained to their best condition. The person who would use the power of fascination, says G. H. Brately, in "The Art of Fascination," must acquire a determined look. An empty stare should be avoided, for it can never carry any influence; neither will a fierce and impudent one fascinate, though it may repel. The magnetic gaze must be steady, quiet, penetrating, and determined. In conversation, look into the eyes of the person calmly and steadily, or fix your eyes on the organ of individuality, which is between the eyebrows. Speak all your thoughts clearly and distinctly. Think them as well as speak them.

Physician Gave Up Work to Become Wood Engraver

The first engraver of wood in America, Alexander Anderson, was born in New York 144 years ago. His father was a Scotchman, the publisher of a newspaper. Anderson first became a physician, but in 1789, after having performed many deeds of heroism fighting the yellow fever epidemic of that year, he abandoned medicine and made engraving his life profession. He died in Jersey City at the age of ninety-four, and a vast number of books illustrated by Anderson vouch for the ability and industry of the pioneer in the art of wood engraving in the new world.

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start your liver and clean your bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone tonight and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate, so let them eat anything afterwards.—Adv.

Ouch ! ! ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freezone tell him to order a small bottle for you!—Adv.

Experts or Theorists—Which?

The packing industry is intricate, complex—far more so than the railroads or the telegraph. Every day multiplying needs of society increase its problems and multiplying responsibilities demand more of it.

Highly trained experts, specialists of years' experience, thinkers and creative men, devote their lives, their energies, their activities, to solving the problems of the packing industry and meeting its widening duties.

Swift & Company is not a few dozen packing plants, a few hundred branch houses, a few thousand refrigerator cars, and a few million dollars of capital, but an organization of such men. It is the experience, intelligence, initiative and activity which operates this physical equipment.

Can this intelligence, this experience, this initiative and creative effort which handles this business at a profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound from all sources, be fostered through the intervention of political theorists, however pure their purposes? Or be replaced by legislation? Does Congress really think that it can?

TAFT OUTLINES LEAGUE PLAN

Puts It Into Plain Language Free
From Legal and Diplomatic Verbiage, in Response to Request.

MANY ARE CONFUSED
BY PRESENT DEBATE

Danger That People Will Lose
Sight of Basic Principles During Discussion of Complicated
Details and Technicalities.

(By ex-President William H. Taft.)

The plan for a League of Nations is based on a few simple principles, which are not hard to understand when lifted out of the morass of technical discussion and freed from legal and diplomatic language. As the one authority best able to present these points without partisan bias, ex-President Taft has been asked to put the league idea into a few plain words for the benefit of millions of Americans who desire a better understanding of the plan but find themselves confused by the debate in the United States Senate. In response to this request he has written the following article.

Purpose of the League.

The chief purpose of the League of Nations is to keep the world in a state of peace. Another way of expressing it is to say that the league is designed to prevent wars.

We have just finished the greatest, which is to say the most horrible, of all conflicts between nations. We have won a glorious victory. But that victory will be wasted unless this war has made the nations ready to put aside their differences and co-operate to end war forever.

It is not enough, however, to provide for the prevention of wars and the settlement of disputes after they have arisen. We must foresee causes of trouble and remove them before they have reached an acute stage. Hence there must be provision for frequent consultations of members of the league for exchange of information, for agreement on common policies and for the gradual formation of rules of international law which at present are uncertain and incomplete.

The representatives of the great free nations which won the war have met at Paris and, after long consultation, have drawn an agreement which they believe will accomplish these ends. At the very least it will set in motion great changes which will result in universal benefit to all mankind. This agreement is called the Covenant of the League of Nations and it is a part of the peace treaty.

There will be no league worth talking about, however, unless the United States is a member. The decision as to whether the United States shall join rests with our Senate. The Senators, chosen by the people, will in the end vote as the people desire. For this reason the people themselves will decide whether or not the United States will join the league. In this question every citizen should have a voice. He or she can express opinion either by writing direct to Senators, by letters to the newspapers, by speeches in his lodge or local union or in conversation with friends.

Methods of Maintaining Peace.
Since the prime object of the League of Nations is to preserve peace—and to reap the benefits of peace—let us see how the league will operate to accomplish that purpose.

In the first place it will seek to remove the main causes of war. By the formation of an international court it will create a means for the peaceful settlement of disputes between nations. Then it will seek to compel the nations to make use of this court. This is nothing more nor less than an application of the rules and customs governing private individuals in civilized communities to the relations between nations.

Secondly, the League will seek to remove a great temptation to war by the general agreement to reduce the size of armies and navies. This will halt the race for military and naval supremacy which was largely responsible for the war just ended. The amount of armament any nation may maintain will be strictly defined. Thus it will be impossible for one country to overwhelm its neighbor by unexpected attack, in the way that Germany crushed Belgium and would have crushed France had not the other democratic nations gone to her aid. The idea is that each country may keep an army and navy large enough to enable it to fulfill its responsibilities as a member of the League, but no larger. The United States, for example, probably would be expected to keep a check on Mexico and the state of constant turmoil in that country would be taken into consideration in deciding how large an army we should need.

The third important safeguard which the League will set up is a system of penalties. This will make an outlaw of any nation or group of nations which goes to war in violation of the rules of the League. The out-

IN DISCUSSING THE CAUSES of the high cost of living, should he wish to frankly discuss the question on his present tour, President Wilson might show his audiences the photograph of FIFTY THOUSAND bales of cotton lying on the ground at Nitro, W. Va., where it was unloaded from cars in AUGUST, 1918, and has been rotting ever since, exposed to the weather on a site where the government has spent $70,000,000 in the construction of buildings.

The photograph was taken for The National Republican by E. I. Allen, assistant to the chairman of the Wood county Republican executive committee, of Parkersburg, W. Va. This is only a small section of the vast heap of cotton thus wasted. Additional photographs taken at the same time, and now in the possession of the paper, show piles of the same kind of cotton stretching in the open air for long distances.

Mr. Allen writes: "The value of the cotton thus ruthlessly wasted is the price the government paid for it in 1918. Had it been turned over to the mills for manufacture when it was found it could not be used at Nitro before it would be ruined by exposure to the weather, or upon the signing of the armistice, it could have been manufactured into muslins and gingham for the use of the people." Instead it was withheld from the market and the people soaked for the loss. This is fairly typical of the methods of the administration as exemplified in the nitro plant at Nitro, and at other similar plants throughout the country under government control.

IN his asylum at Amerongen the former Kaiser is shrunk to so insignificant and despicable a figure that it is inconceivable that anyone should want to drag him forth and glorify him by a trial. He is now a wretched nobody, a captain who beat even the rats in deserting his ship, and as such has the mere contempt of all right-thinking men. A trial would inevitably make him something of a figure again, and pity and sympathy, which he lacks now, would be given him. His present position contains all the elements of retribution, even to poetic justice. If he is tried nothing in the way of punishment can be given him that will even equal his present painful degradation, and he cannot fail to acquire a certain halo. Lloyd George has not the political sagacity he is credited with if he insists on disturbing the present situation.—Ex.

RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY has been changing hands so rapidly that one scarcely knows his neighbor of tomorrow. There is but little left to rent and the only way to have a house is to buy or build. The man who can do neither may look for moving day. Tomorrow he may have to live in a tent.

THERE is division of opinion and a break in the ranks of the President's official family. Altho the claim is made that there are no "hard feelings", still there's a "sort o' feel in the air" that tells of friction. Maybe there's no fire where that smoke came from. Oh, certainly not.

EVERYONE should "swat the fly." All garbage and rubbish should be so taken care of that its breeding grounds would be abolished. Do your bit to limit the pest or he may limit your comfort.

WE may soon expect a drop in silk hose. Not while you wear them but before you buy them. The chemists can make silk out of wood that beats nature's product.

The prune harvest is making a great showing these days, and the growers' association bonus of 1 cent the pound on deliveries made before Saturday is having a marked effect on the movement of fruit. The streets are full of prunes! From early morn till late at night loads of fruit are lined up down several streets waiting their turn for the grader. Some of the ranchers have even brought their loads in the evening and slept beside them for the night to be among the first to unload in the morning. During the past week the local plant has received about 500 tons of prunes and has shipped several cars. At the present rate the house will be practically filled by the end of the week, because of the quantity of box shock stored on the lower floor.

Mrs. Watrous Entertained Circle

Mrs. H. A. Watrous entertained the members of the Pundita Circle and a few outside friends Friday afternoon. As the hostess will leave that community it bore somewhat the nature of a farewell, altho the separation may not be made immediately.

While Mrs. Watrous was engaged in school work, she dramatized the "Lady of the Lake" and made a miniature stage and a number of scenes with tiny set figures, illustrating various parts of the poem. She gave this reading, with selections on the phonograph, including the songs of the poem and some of Harry Lauder's, changing the scenes accordingly. The entire idea and its clever execution were enthusiastically praised by all present.

A service of dainty refreshments concluded an exceptionally pleasant afternoon.

Everything is set for the opening of grammar school Monday. The school will be well filled this year and the upper grades too crowded, it being necessary to divide the seventh. The teachers will have charge of grades as follows: Miss Reese, first; Miss Atkinson, second and third; Miss Flanders, fourth and fifth; Miss Wilson, sixth and seventh; Mr. Bohnett, principal, seventh and eighth.

Enlistments Increase

Owing to the fact that enlistments for the American Expeditionary forces have been authorized the number of men applying for service in the United States Army overseas, has more than doubled during the past week. This is due to the exceptional opportunity offered to visit the scenes of the great world war at the expense of the United States Army. Many veterans are returning for the one year period to review the scenes of their fight for democracy, free from the din and clash of the battlefield, which has now given way to reconstruction and peaceful farming. Not only that, the great educational features embodied in the conduct of the Army of Occupation, such as special assignment to the Universities of Europe to those men with educational ambition constitute one of the main reasons for the unprecedented number of applicants for the overseas service at the recruiting offices of the San Francisco district.

England Harbors Ex-Queens.

England will soon be the land of five queens, a potential and powerful group either in politics or poker. The figure resembles a misdeal, but it is explained by the fact that England has a queen and a queen mother, while there are in England the one-time queens of two other countries. They are soon to be joined by another, Empress Marie of Russia. She and the two other foreign ladies are deep in unhappiness—three of the saddest queens, as an observer has remarked. In modern history. The two whom Empress Marie will join are Empress Eugenie and the queen mother of Portugal.

These three women plainly tell the story of greatness. One of them was driven from her throne and her son was killed fighting for another country; another was exiled after having been robbed of her husband and son, and her other son driven from the throne; the last was widowed and her son, her grandson and her granddaughters brutally murdered.
